Newman Regional Library Program Draws Large Crowd

biv Danat Aless

The Newman Regional Library District presented a program last Wednesday evening at the Illini Capital Development Board Room. A standing-room only crowd with over 50 people was present to hear Peter Berry's talk on the Charleston Riot of March 28, 1864. Mr. Berry, originally of Charleston, is a retired college professor from the $U$ of I and married to Jane Dague, formerly of Newman. Their connection to East-Central Illinois and its history are part of his family history. He had researched the event and wrote a book about the event and those involved.
Mr. Berry gave an overview of the actual riot that culminated in the deaths of at least 9 people and the wounding of at least 12 others. The riot evolved around the strong convictions of many factions that were either pro-Union or pro-Southern. Portions of central Illinois (the Copperhead factions of pro-Southern influence) were not in favor of Mr. Lincoln or his Emancipation leanings on the slavery question. Disturbances had been seen in various areas throughout the North but none to the extent of the riot on the Coles County Court House square that spring afternoon.
Through Mr. Berry's program, he introduced the audience to headlines of the day that stretched across the country about the riot. Included were article titles from the New York Times, the St. Louis papers, Philadelphia papers, and the Columbus, Ohio papers. He spoke of the Civil war era and the prelude to Riot Day. The actual riot lasted less than one-half hour but the fall-out from it has lasted over many years.
Copperheads had gathered in Charleston to voice their opinions in opposition to the Lincoln government. Soldiers from the $54^{\text {th }}$ Illinois Infantry were on leave and billeted in Mattoon. Many had taken the train to Charleston to spend time with family and friends before returning to the war. The clash between the soldiers and Copperheads came to a head on the Court House lawn. Once the turmoil started, six soldiers and three civilians were killed along with 12 people from both factions wounded.
In the aftermath 100 people were arrested at the outset and many of the Copperheads fled from Charleston seeking refuge on family farms and journeying as far away as Canada. The number of arrested individuals was ultimately reduced to 50 and sent to the East Coast to await a trial. Eventually 14 were kept secured until the president, Abraham Lincoln had them returned to Coles County, Illinois.

Mr. Berry spoke of the aftermath, lessons learned and implications left from the Riot. Most would think the deep south of Illinois would have strong sympathies for the Confederate cause but it was actually the east-central portion of Illinois that had the strongest convictions for the prosouthern Democrat ideas.

Peter finally brought up his own connection to the infamous Riot of 1864. He has family ties to some of the principle protagonists involved in the event. He is a descendent of Thomas E. Frazier (greatgrandfather) who was involved with the Copperhead movement and also John H. O'Hair, Coles County Sheriff at the time of the Riot and also a person associated with the Copperhead movement. Sheriff O'Hair was one of the wounded from the Riot that day and his cousin William S. O'Hair, Sheriff of Edgar County was also involved with the Copperhead movement. Mr. Berry's family has kept a lid on the family history for years on the participation in the Charleston Riot. Through his diligent research with state, county, and personal records, he has been able to reconstruct the story of the Riot and the people involved and tell the story in such a way to enlighten people on the event and the people involved without taking a personal stand on either side.
For those interested in local history that

Shiloh Board Holds February Meeting

President Hutchinson called the meeting to order at 7:00PM with all present except Jason Dye. Jim Motley, CPA was to present the annual report that should have been done typically by early winter, but due to delays by the school on information needed and delays by Mr. Motley's office, the report was not ready until now. Due to an untimely family concern with Mr. Motley, the report was delayed again until the March meeting.
Three members of the Parkland College were there to give a presentation to the board on opportunities available to current students and graduates from Shiloh High School. College President Tom Ramage, College Board members Dana Trimble and Lynn Warfel gave a portion of the presentation on the attributes of Parkland and the numerous improvements made on the campus in the past few years. Mr. Ramage spoke of the unique opportunities of duel credit courses available to current Shiloh juniors and seniors if local staff or Parkland staff can be utilized. Currently Shiloh offers 3 duel credit courses, one through Danville Area Community College and two through Lakeland Community College. Shiloh is unique in that we have three junior colleges available to our students because of our consolidation in 1994. The presentation was well received by the board with numerous questions asked and answered completely.
Consent agenda items of regular meeting minutes of December 21, 2012, December Activity Fund Report, and December Treasurer' s Report were approved.
Mrs. Harbaugh gave her administrative report which included a foreign language enrichment program for $1^{\text {st }}-4^{\text {th }}$ grade students, Newman Grade School procedure for entering/exiting and picking up students from the building, ESDA worked with the staff on Feb. 6 concerning emergency procedures, ISAT testing will be conducted March 4 for grades 3-8, Junior Beta conducted their induction ceremonies for 7 new members, and February 27, the Shiloh/Newman Elementary will host a "Read Across America Celebration" in the Shiloh Gym. Dr. Wheatley's report included the High School Softball Coaching position is still to be filled and the season starts next week, Eastern Illinois University distributed information regarding scholarship awarded to Shiloh High School students, a new federal/state program on health care provided services by Shiloh staff that replaces the Medicaid system formerly utilized by the staff, and the proposed insurance costs for next year for faculty and staff by the district providers.

Payment of bills was passed by the board with little discussion involved.
Board committees including class size, weighted grades for the High School, the district website, and building and grounds gave reports on their progress from recen meetings. They will continue to meet and make recommendations to the board.
The Ecology Field trip to the St. Louis Zoo and Six Flags was approved as business item.
Announcements and Discussion portion of the board meeting had Reduction-In Force and Honorable Dismissal tabled until the March meeting. The Fee Schedule for 2013-2014 was approved. School safety was discussed and the board was informed of recent reviews by the county ESDA and improvements in facility security. The mission statement was reviewed and approved.

The board moved to go into Executive Session at $8: 45$ and returned to open session at $9: 38 \mathrm{PM}$. They approved the Executive Session minutes of January 21 2013 and approved the employment of Terry Sullivan as Junior High and High School Scholastic Bowl coach.

A motion to adjourn was approved a 9:45PM.
this is a story that has rarely seen the light of day. Thanks to Peter J. Berry, people now have a complete record of the events that led up to the Riot, the people involved and the after math of a somewhat unknown event in Illinois history.
Mr. Berry had some of his books available for the audience and sold all he brought. He generously donated the book sales money to the Newman Regional Library District. All present went home with a better understanding of the event that took place 150 years ago next March.

There is a scheduled public event to commemorate the Charleston Riot next year on the anniversary date. Watch for more information in the coming months for Starting college underprepared academically does not have to be the death knell of career dreams. In fact, community colleges design programs that renew the hope of the underprepared student in achieving educational success.

One such effort at Parkland College, called First Year Communities, is showing real promise at guiding new, full-time developmental students (those not ready for freshman reading and writing) into desired career fields. As a part of a First Year Community, students learn and grow in courses within the same group. They receive focused academic support from faculty and staff, and build community with each other through in-class and extracurricular social events.
There are First Year Community cohorts in Business, Criminal Justice, and the Health Professions.
Developmental class readings and writing assignments in these communities focus on course content from freshman business, biology/ chemistry, and criminal justice courses. There's also a First Year Community for African American male students, called Together We Achieve, which targets students in this demographic with intrusive, wraparound support. Initial performance data on these groups, gathered over the past two years, seem to indicate that participation in First Year Communities can improve the likelihood of several outcomes, including passing college-level English (ENG 101) in the second semester of freshman year and fall-to-fall persistence (returning to enroll in college the following year).
Everyone needs a place to belong and grow strong academically. Parkland College will continue to measure the effectiveness of this new initiative, and others like it, in successfully engaging the entire community in learning.

Respectfully,
Thomas Bennett, Gibson City Parkland College Trustee

How well children adapt to being home alone, whether the experience becomes a positive or a negative one depends primarily on three factors: age, maturity level and preparation. Parents need to talk with children to determine their children's level of self-confidence and maturity and they need to prepare their children before leaving them home alone. They should never expect their child to know what to do without any training.

The University of Illinois Extension, Moultrie-Douglas Unit will be starting "Operation Safe Kids" in the Arthur, Atwood-Hammond, and Lovington Grade Schools this month. This curriculum, which will be taught to fourth grader students, contains five interactive lessons on personal safety, getting along with others, dealing with emergencies, safely fixing a nutritious snack and building confidence. In addition to the lessons and student activity handouts, the curriculum also includes a "Report to Parents" handout for each lesson, so that teachers can keep parents informed about progress and offer ways parents can become involved in the learning experience. Staff members from the Moultrie-Douglas Extension Unit, along with local community leaders, will be teaching the students these important lessons about how to stay home alone safely.

As We Age...

As we age, our health care, legal and financial matters, and long term care issues don't just affect us, but also our families. February is National Senior Independence Month and brings up the thought of awareness of what to prepare for. We all want to remain independent as long as possible, so certain issues need to be discussed between generations. One of these issues is finances. Questions that could be considered are: What kind of retirement income do you get (Social Security, pensions, etc.)? Who can get to your financial information in an emergency? Where can those documents be found?
Legal questions that can be asked: Do you have a will? Do you have a durable power of attorney to handle your finances and/or health care decisions in case you are unable to? Are there any other legal issues to talk about?
Health insurance and health care are very important to discuss. Do you have the right kind of health insurance for you? Are you able to pay for out-of -pocket medical expenses? Who are your doctors and how can they be contacted? Do you have a list of the medications that you take? Where is your insurance card, Medicare card, and any other health care documents (such as a durable power of attorney for health care)? The latter two questions cover things that are necessary for a trip to the hospital.
Everyday living issues are vital. Do you need any repairs or household modifications that will make it easier to live in this house? Do you need help with house cleaning, shopping or personal care? Do you need meals delivered? Do you need transportation for shopping or doctor's appointments? Many of these can be handled by family or friends, but also check for resources in your community that may be able to help. For example, some service organizations have programs to help the elderly and disabled get a ramp built up to their door. Another discussion point may be, what do you want to do in case you can't live by yourself anymore? There are options available to think about - moving in with a relative, having home health care givers, assisted living arrangements, nursing homes. Find out what your loved one's opinion is, realizing that options may need to change due to circumstances.

Talking about these things between generations can sometimes be difficult. The younger generation may find that it is hard to realize that parents do get older and less tolerant to certain activities. They want to postpone finding out important things until absolutely necessary. It can also cause a realization that they too, are getting older. The senior generation may not want to 'be a burden' to the kids and so try to handle everything on their own. Or maybe they are just stubborn and don't care what happens. Perhaps they think that their children are trying to control them.
The important thing when having these discussions is for both sides of the 'generation gap' to be honest, open, and non-argumentative. Also do your homework and have some knowledge about what you plan to discuss.
Life changes daily and emergencies will happen. It is usually better to have some pre-arranged plans to cope with predictable problems than to be totally unaware and thus add to the stress of life. I need to have a discussion with my family. Maybe you do too.

FROM THE NEWMAN COUNCIL OF CHURCHES

by Jim Allen, Wesley Chapel

I would encourage anyone who wants to know more about Christians in general to read Carol Wimmer's poem "When I say I am a Christian." If you do not have the resources to read it, I will try to give a summary with some other insights thrown in.

Christians are saved through no work of their own. In fact, a Christian must admit that what work they do is only a result-and an inadequate oneof what has been done for them. When someone is trying to give the Good News to another, they are not doing so because they feel superior. They are trying to let others know about the wonderful grace that they have experienced. I'm not saying that we all communicate this well, but that is what we are trying to say.

No Christian is judging others when they speak the words of the Bible. There are numerous warnings in the Bible against one person judging another. However, at the same time, the Bible is consistent in pointing out what is a $\sin$ against God. If a Christian does not point out how someone breaks God's law, they do them no favors. If a Christian does not recognize when he breaks God's law, he does himself no favor. Believe me, Christians are constantly asking forgiveness for their sins because they know that is what will separate them from Christ.

What I am trying to say is that if a person's destructive behavior is not pointed out, there is almost no chance of them changing. Someone wanting to tell you about Christ is probably the greatest act of love they can perform. Witnessing is not easy. It is one of the hardest things a Christian can do. Working on shelters, giving money, helping in a hospital or clinic-great! But talking to others one-on-one is difficult. You see, we know all the stereotypes of Christians; the loud, judgmental, egotistical, I'm holy, you are not. But that is not what we are. We are a weak, imperfect means of spreading the greatest news the world has ever known.

By the Way, I can't speak for others but I don't love you because I am a good guy, I love you because Jesus rst loved me and He basically said, "I need you to tell everyone else that I love them, too."

Thanks for reading, Jim.

Raiders Take Games to Limit Falling Just Short of Round of 32

In the past three seasons, the Shiloh Raiders boys' basketball team won a combined total of 19 games. This season, the men of the Blue and Gold were standing at 21 heading into the start of the post-season. Head Coach Charlie Carver led the squad into last week's Chrisman regional as the number two seed starting up the 2013 IHSA Class 1A tournament hoping to end a sixteen year drought between title and continue to show the rest of the area that the program has a new life and energy to it to be a factor going forward. After the week's games were played, the Blue and Gold showed that they were not the same team as in past years taking both of their games to the limit, but coming up just short of making the round of 32 .
Wednesday night saw the Raiders face off against the Danville Schlarman Hilltoppers in a rematch of the fifth place game of the BSN Classic in December which Shiloh went on to win. After a good start that saw the Raiders take a 19-14 first quarter lead, the shooting went cold and the Hilltoppers roared back with a

Furgeson Puts On Clinic Advancing in Three Point Showdown

by: Tim Hendershot

Cyrus Furgeson is one of the top young players for the Shiloh Raiders basketball team and in the Little Okaw Valley Conference. He is a factor every time he has the ball and especially around the three point line. Last Friday night, he showed why he can be that factor. The regional round of the Country Financial Three Point Showdown was held at Chrisman High School in Chrisman and Furgeson put on a display that impressed the crowd making 11 of 15 shots tying for top mark in the event with Max Stutsman of the Salt Fork Storm to advance on to this week's Danville Schlarman sectional in Danville. Wes Motley of the Tri-County Titans grabbed the third spot with 9 and the fourth spot was still in doubt involving another Shiloh Raider player. Cyrus' brother, Eli, was involved in two shootouts after making 8 of 15 in his first round, but was eliminated in the second shootout by John Porter of the Chrisman Cardinals 6 to 5 . He had made 6 of 10 in the first shootout to stay alive in the competition. Andrew Donithan made 7 of 15 shots and Cole Bogle made 6 of 15 shots in their respective rounds, but didn't advance in the competition. After this week, the top four scores will advance to Carver Arena in Peoria next Thursday for the Class 1A preliminaries where the top four scores will advance to next Friday's championship round in between the Class 1A semi-final games. The winner of the Class 1A competition will then advance to the King of the Hill final facing off against the winner of the Class $2 \mathrm{~A}, 3 \mathrm{~A}$, and 4A competitions to see who will be the best in the state. Basketball Central will follow Cyrus and his quest towards Peoria and have a report for you 22-8 second stanza to take a 36-27 lead at the halftime break. Schlarman then stayed even with Shiloh to take a seven point lead heading into the final eight minutes, but the Raiders showed their never give up attitude clamping down on the defense and coming all the way back with 21 fourth quarter points and holding off a last second effort by the Hilltoppers to win their first regional game in quite some time by a score of $60-58$ to advance to the championship game. Cyrus Furgeson had his best game of the season hitting 7 three pointers and leading the way for the Raiders with a game-high 28 points while Andrew Donithan finished with a double-double scoring 15 points and grabbing 14 rebounds. Austin Calhoun led the Hilltoppers with 23 points and Chris Kuchefski chipped in 11 points and 9 rebounds.

Friday night saw an electric atmosphere as the Raiders faced the top-seed Salt Fork Storm, who had to survive in their semifinal against the host Chrisman Cardinals on Wednesday. This also was a battle of top fifteen teams in Class 1A as the Raiders came in ranked $11^{\text {th }}$ and the Storm were ranked $7^{\text {th }}$ in the polls. The game itself lived up to its billing as the Storm dashed off to an 8-2 lead early, but the Raiders used their quickness to battle back pulling within four points at 15-11 after the first quarter. Shiloh continued that momentum in the second stanza pulling even at 23-23 until Ross Learnard put in a tip at the buzzer to give the Storm a 25-23 lead at the break. The rest of the game was played very evenly as both teams showed why they were amongst the best in Class 1A with the game never reaching a double digit lead throughout the contest. In the end, it was clutch free throw shooting by Salt Fork plus a couple of key costly turnovers by Shiloh to give the Storm a 53-47 win to advance on to the round of 32 . The free throw line was the difference in this contest as the Storm went 18 of 20 from the charity stripe for 90 percent. The Raiders got to the line only four times, but went perfect on the evening draining all four attempts. Shiloh finished the evening 19 of 42 for 45 percent, but only 4 of 13 from beyond the arc for 31 percent. Andrew Doninthan led the Raiders with 18 points on 8 of 11 shooting and grabbed 7 rebounds while Cyrus Furgeson chipped in 9 points and Cole Bogle added 7 points in the final game of his career. DJ Castillo grabbed a team-high 8 rebounds to go with 6 points in the loss. Ross Learnard led the Storm with a game-high 27 points on 9 of 13 shooting and 5 of 7 from beyond the arc. Max Stutsman finished with a doubledouble chipping in 11 points and a gamehigh 10 rebounds in the win.

The Raiders finished an incredible bounce back season at 22-9 overall and $8-2$ in the LOVC while grabbing the program's first form of league title in thirteen years by winning the LOVC tournament and will only lose one starter going into next season. With pretty much the entire team coming back and a batch of new talent going to be coming in, the cupboard seems to be very full right now for Head Coach Charlie Carver as they will head into the off-season as they begin to put the necessary work in to comeback in 2013-2014 as one of the favorites to win the LOVC title and make a deep run into the post-season. Basketball Central salutes the entire program on one of the great seasons in recent memory and the fans are excited to see what the 2013-2014 season will bring in continuing the rise back towards the top of the area for our men of the Blue and Gold.

GREAT YEAR
SHILOH RAIDERS!

"From the Sidelines: Observations from a Sports Fan"

By: Tim Hendershot
Throughout the history of sports, the one key to success has been the support and backing of the fans that cheer the teams on. Teams mostly rely on the work ethic and drive that is needed to make them successful. That work ethic consists of conditioning, learning the plays, practices, and mental mindset to prepare for battle. Even with that all said, the teams can't go anywhere without the support of the people that back them every step of the way. The past couple of years at Shiloh High School have seen that our gym hasn't had the sounds of the fighting spirit that makes up what tradition is all about. On that sense, the programs of the Shiloh Raiders haven't really had much to cheer about as most of our sports programs have struggled, but have shown progress in returning towards respectability. This season, the hard work and changes have started to bring back the spirit of unity and tradition. The gymnasium in recent weeks has become louder than it has been in quite some time. There has been one particular instance that I have noticed that can become something bigger in future years to come. I am talking about the combination of our Shiloh Raiders cheerleading squad and its student fan base, the Shiloh Blue Crew. These young students have come out in full force during this basketball season that hasn't been seen in a long time. It has also started to become a positive influence on our younger generation of Raiders that will be the future of our basketball teams. This week's FTS will honor these students for what they brought to the table this season and how this show of unity will influence future generations on keep the sense of tradition alive.

The Return of Spirit and Tradition: 2012-2013 Raider Blue Crew and Cheerleaders

Something that I have always thought has been important to any sports teams, whether it is football or basketball, has always been the cheerleading squad. The squads I feel are a part of the football and basketball programs as they are the voice and spirit of the fans in the stands. This season, we had five young ladies that brought out everything in the fans and with the combination of great season by the boys' basketball team, their spirit showed at every moment. For Cheyenne Weber, Karla Madden, Desiree Brown, Lauran Vezina, and Stephanie Deem, I am very, very proud of your efforts. I hope that from here on out that people do start to think of cheerleaders as athletes. It takes a lot of time, preparation, and mental mindset to perform on the court and on the sidelines. I do wish that more and more girls do tryout and want to be on the team next season and beyond. You are a part of the boys' basketball program and will be going forward. Be very proud of being a part of the Blue and Gold and continue what you are doing.
I also have to give credit to our student body of the Blue Crew. You have been a big part of how the boys' and girls' basketball seasons have gone. Both of the teams supported each other during their games and you guys have showed up in force. Whether it was dressing up as bananas, gorillas, gladiators, hot dogs, or masks imitating the President of the United States, you gathered together and combined with our cheerleaders to make your voices heard. There are a lot of students on this crew that are too many to mention by name to fit this piece, but you all know who you are and I salute what you did this season. Even some of the boys' and girls' basketball players would use body paint to show support for each other while sitting in the Blue Crew section. You even had help from your younger counterparts in the junior high kids participating in supporting their older peers. This is the prime example of being a positive role model in bringing a student body together for a common goal. I hope that you all keep it up as our basketball teams become stronger and stronger and that you all become a group to be reckoned with and respected by the other schools that face us on the battlefield. Remember this is how tradition is started and can be continued for future generations. A unified student body will do extraordinary things rather than a divided group. You all have the Blue and Gold running inside you and should be proud of supporting the teams through thick and thin.
Seeing how our student body came together this basketball season reminded me of how the towns came together every game day to support our schools and their teams no matter how the season was going back when I was in school. This is how communities stay unified in giving support to the kids of our school district. Even though I do not have a child in the school district itself, I was taught that the kids are the future of our country and that they can achieve anything their minds want them to do. Without that, who knows what will happen to them once they tackle the task of the real world. I am very proud of all of you and you have earned to be known as Raiders. Remember that going forward and it will be passed down and continued by future generations. That is how you make a positive mark on keeping a tradition and legacy alive. That will be something that will be remembered forever.
